According to current indications, apart from the Galathea Bay project that involves building the ICTT, a Greenfield Airport and an Integrated Township, the A&N Administration is undertaking several infrastructure projects designed to transform India's strategically located A&N Islands from an outpost to a springboard for India's 'Act East' policy.

For instance, IIT Madras will carry out a feasibility study to establish a bulk cargo transshipment-cum-tourism hub in Atlanta Bay near Diglipur in North Andamans. A twin use airport at Kohassa near Diglipur is nearing completion and can complement the proposed project, the A&N administration believes.
