Empowering Tribal Women: Orientation training prog. on Virgin Coconut Oil production in Nancowry Block held

Nancowry, Jan. 29 As part of the ongoing efforts to strengthen women's participation in development and provide better livelihood opportunities to tribal women, an orientation training programme on production, processing, packaging, labelling, and marketing of Virgin Coconut Oil was conducted on Jan. 27 in Pilpillow and Chota Enaka village under Nancowry Block.

The program was organized in collaboration with ICAR-KVK, Car Nicobar, and specifically targeted members of Self-Help Groups with the support of District Administration, Nicobars. Dr. Akshay and Dr. Deepu Meena, Scientists from ICAR-KVK, delivered an insightful presentation covering the entire value chain of Virgin Coconut Oil production.

This training is part of a broader plan to establish a unique and distinct SHG brand of Virgin Coconut Oil for the Nicobar Islands, which has recently received the prestigious Geographical Indication (GI) tag. To expand the reach and impact of this initiative, similar training programs have been planned for other villages of Chowra, Teresa, Katchal, and Nancowry Islands covering entire tribal rural populace.

Earlier, Shri Mohammed Yunus M, Block Development Officer, Nancowry, elucidated on the initiative and highlighted the immense potential and scope of Virgin Coconut Oil as a valuable product. He informed the participants that, to support SHGs of Nancowry Block, packaging bottles have been sourced with the assistance of donor agencies. He also informed that a Producer Group (PG) under the DAY-NRLM scheme has been formed in the Block to oversee the entire operations and to coordinate the activity amongst the SHGs across the block. He further elaborated that the Administration is committed to providing assistance for branding and marketing of the product to enhance its visibility and market reach. Additionally, plans are underway to provide the required machinery as startup support, aiming to improve efficiency and ease of production, a press release from BDO, Nancowry said.
