Port Blair, July 11

PBMC is committed to maintain a clean and sustainable environment by encouraging residents to actively participate in waste management practices. Ensuring cleanliness in the city focusing on proper waste segregation, can contribute to recycling efforts, reducing landfill use and promoting a healthier ecosystem. In this regard, a meeting was convened under the chairmanship of Shri Amit Kale, IAS, Secretary, PBMC, in the Conference Hall of the Council with the Sanitation and Solid Waste Management officials. It was decided that to ensure effective implementation of the Solid Waste Management (SWM) Rule, the Port Blair Municipal Council will issue information pamphlets to households for waste segregation at the source.

These pamphlets will provide information regarding categorization of waste into wet, dry and household hazardous waste, aiming to facilitate proper waste segregation and enhance the efficiency of waste management.

Inspectors from the Council will ensure the pamphlets are placed on the front door or in the kitchen area, with the consent of the households, to ensure that it is clearly visible to all family members. This visibility will help streamline the segregation process and instill a sense of responsibility among residents.

In addition to the above measures, the PBMC is creating awareness programs through its Safai Mitras, Supervisors and Swachhta Awareness Team to streamline the segregation process. It is emphasized that from 25th of July 2024 onwards, waste collection will only be done, if the waste is properly segregated at the source. Andaman Fever (Leptospirosis): Causes, Symptoms, Prevention & Treatment

ANIIMS urges people to stay safe and prevent Andaman Fever

Port Blair, July 11

Any case of fever in Leptospirosis endemic areas during monsoon and post-monsoon season should be treated with caution. A press release from ANIIMS has stated that Andaman Fever is caused by bacteria called Leptospira, primarily occurs in animals and occasionally infects humans. Humans get infection from contact with:

➤ Urine from infected animals- rats, dogs, livestock, pigs, and wildlife.

➤ Flood water, freshwater like rivers or streams, unsafe tap water, wet soil, or food contaminated with the urine of infected animals.

Leptospire can gain entry into humans through cuts and abrasions in the skin, through intact mucous membranes (nose, mouth, eyes) and perhaps through waterlogged skin. They may occasionally enter the human body via the inhalation of droplets of urine or via drinking-water.

Who is at risk?

Workers engaged in occupations like fishing, farming, a g r i c u l t u r e , veterinarians, sewer workers, survivors of natural disasters (e.g. flooding) and the increasing number of people engaging in recreational water sports, meat handlers etc.

Common Symptoms and Signs

◆ Abrupt onset of fever (can be low or high grade), chills, red eyes, headache, body aches (Lower legs and Back) and jaundice.

◆ Can be associated with symptoms of cough, dyspnoea, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, diarrhoea, arthralgias and skin rash.

◆ It is essential to note that mild cases may present atypically and may not be diagnosed as leptospirosis.

Can Andaman Fever

Cause Death?

Death can occur in as many as 7 out of 10 cases, if not treated in time.

Treatment should be started as early as possible and is available in all health facilities in Andaman and Nicobar Islands. However Prevention and Control of the Disease is 100% effective.

Learn how to prevent Andaman Fever (Leptospirosis):

A) Personal protection: ◆ Avoid direct and indirect human contact with animal urine

◆ Workers working in flooded fields should/contaminated water or mud should be advised to use rubber shoes and gloves.

◆ In case of any cuts or abrasion on the lower extremities of the body, the worker should apply an antiseptic ointment e.g. betadine, before entering the field and after exit.

B) Rodent Control: Rats, Dogs, Cattle, Pigs and occasionally cats can spread the disease. Avoid direct contact with their urine, saliva on broken skin and contact with water contaminated with urine of infected animals.

C) Chemoprophylaxis: During the peak transmission season Doxycycline 200 mg, once a week for six to eight weeks.

D) Vaccination of animals: While this prevents illness, it does not necessarily protect from infection and renal shedding, so not very effective.

The A & N Administration has urged all the inhabitants of the Islands to exercise due caution and stay safe and prevent Andaman Fever. Once the disease occurs, if it's not detected in time can be fatal in as many as 7 out of 10 cases. Mostly the death occurs due to bleeding in lungs and respiratory airways, kidney and liver failure, the release added.

ANC ships render assistance to Indonesian Tug, MV ASL Courageous

Port Blair, July 11

MV ASL Courageous, accompanied by barge ASLCO 300008, departed Port Sabang, Indonesia, carrying 68 KL of fuel destined for Tuticorin on June 13, 2024. Encountering severe weather, the vessel's speed was drastically reduced to 1-2 knots. Facing a 'No-Go' situation, the master decided to return to Port Sabang on 24th June to refuel, intending to resume the voyage once conditions improved. However, the vessel exhausted its remaining fuel on 29th June, 2024 and began drifting within the Indian Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ).

The drifting vessel was promptly detected by the Joint Operations Center (JOC) of Andaman and Nicobar Command (ANC) and was classified as a Vessel of Interest (VoI) on 30th June. HQ ANC maintained constant surveillance over the vessel. Despite efforts to arrange for necessary bunkering, the vessel remained without fuel.

On 2nd July, the vessel was observed drifting towards Indian Territorial Waters at a rate of 1.1 knots. INS Kulish, in the vicinity, was directed to intercept the vessel. INS Kulish successfully intercepted the vessel within territorial waters on 2nd July. The vessel's request to anchor was initially denied pending clearance from ANC. On 3rd July, the vessel, now 7 nm from the West Coast of Great Nicobar Island, requested emergency permission to anchor against the danger of being washed ashore. Noting the deteriorating conditions, HQ ANC granted the tug permission to anchor. INS Kulish boarded the vessel to verify the situation. Following this, INS Kulish resumed routine patrolling, while Coast Guard District Headquarters at Campbell Bay deployed additional monitoring platforms.

On the intervening night of July 4th & 5th, the vessel's anchor began dragging due to strong sea currents, leading to an emergency on 5th July. INS Kulish and ICGS Rajveer responded immediately. INS Kulish towed the ship and barge, but the towline broke after a few miles of towing. The barge was anchored in deep water, and the tugboat was tied to it. ICGS Rajveer kept a close watch of the situation.

Rescue boat MV Al Aqsa I requisitioned by the ship owner arrived on 6th July to provide assistance. After refueling by MV Al Aqsa I, MV ASL Courageous departed Indian waters safely for Port Sabang at 1900 hrs on 6th July.

The timely and effective assistance provided by the Andaman and Nicobar Command and the Indian Armed Forces highlights India's unwavering commitment in ensuring maritime safety and aiding foreign vessels in distress within the region. This operation reaffirms India's role as a steadfast security partner in the maritime domain of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, a press release from HQ ANC said.
