Petroleum Minister underscores India's goal of becoming the next credible frontier for deepwater oil and gas exploration

Minister highlights significant hydrocarbon potential of Andaman Basin, drawing comparisons with the prolific Guyana basin

New Delhi, July 18 (PIB)

Minister of Petroleum and Natural Gas, Shri Hardeep Singh Puri laid out India's comprehensive strategy for strengthening upstream exploration and production (E&P), energy resilience, and international cooperation while speaking in a fireside chat session organised on sidelines of Urja Varta 2025. Shri Puri highlighted a series of transformative policy reforms introduced over the last decade to make India's upstream sector globally competitive. Among the major changes, he mentioned the reimagined exploration framework under the Oilfields Regulation and Development Act (ORDA), characterised by a co-designed approach, a single lease and approval mechanism, transparent operational rules, and the introduction of a "no-sit" clause to eliminate inactive acreage. These measures, integrated with the revised Petroleum and Natural Gas Rules (PNG Rules 2025) and the Model Revenue Sharing Contracts (MRSC), aim to simplify business operations and attract private investment. The Minister acknowledged that the Hydrocarbon Exploration and Licensing Policy (HELP) and amendments to the ORD Act have opened nearly 1 million square kilometres of previously inaccessible "No-Go" areas to exploration, thereby unlocking significant resource potential.

Reaffirming India's ambitions in offshore energy, Shri Puri spoke of the significant hydrocarbon potential of the Andaman Basin, drawing comparisons with the prolific Guyana basin. He expressed strong optimism, stating, "I am positive we will find several fields of the size of Guyana, particularly in the Andaman Sea." This confidence is rooted in India's expanding access to high-quality geoscientific data, robust regulatory support, and policy incentives aimed at de-risking exploration investments. He underscored India's goal of becoming the next credible frontier for deepwater oil and gas exploration by leveraging scale, demand continuity, and global partnerships.

The Minister elaborated on India's focus on enhancing subsurface intelligence through the expansion and modernisation of the country's seismic database. He highlighted the Government's thrust on conducting extensive seismic surveys, adopting advanced technologies, and democratising data access through the National Data Repository. These efforts, he said, are central to ensuring greater investor confidence and fostering transparent, data-driven decision-making in exploration.

The second edition of Urja Varta 2025, India's premier upstream oil and gas conclave, was held yesterday at Bharat Mandapam, New Delhi.

Organised by the DGH (DGH) under the patronage of the MoPNG (MoPNG), the event brought together over 700 participants including Union and State Ministers, senior officials, global industry leaders, domain experts, and media professionals. With the theme "Collaborate, Innovate, Synergize," the conclave served as a dynamic platform for dialogue, technical exchange, and strategic visioning around India's energy roadmap.

Between 2025 and 2035, India is expected to witness significant investments across the entire hydrocarbons value chain. "These investments will require leadership and proactive participation from
