highlighting its transformation from humble beginnings into a formidable force capable of protecting national sovereignty and contributing to regional stability. He recalled the Command's selfless response during the 2004 tsunami, cyclones and the COVID pandemic and commended personnel for their relentless dedication to humanitarian operations. He cited Op Brahma, the HADR mission to Myanmar, as a demonstration of ANC's responsiveness and regional commitment. He also highlighted the assistance provided to 8-10 civilian vessels in distress under adverse sea conditions which prevented major incidents and saved many lives including 18 life-saving medical evacuations from remote islands in recent months.

CINCAN underscored the Command's operational efficiency and vigilance across the Area of Responsibility with enhanced deployment of ships, aircraft and troops. He noted the continuous presence of Army detachments across remote islands through Area Domination Patrols (ADPs) and Temporary Operating Bases (IOBs), extensive maritime surveillance by Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard aircraft and effective watch over the Malacca Strait. He also commended the successful apprehension of several poachers in the Command's Area of Responsibility which reflects sustained maritime vigilance. He further highlighted ANC's engagement with Friendly Foreign Countries through Coordinated Patrols (CORPAT) and joint exercises such as IND-INDO CORPAT, INDO-THAI CORPAT, SITMEX and AIKEYME which reflect India's commitment to regional security and cooperation. He mentioned the Dweep Diksha Seminar as a significant initiative by ANC which provides a platform for strategic dialogue among military professionals, scholars and think tanks on issues relevant to the Indian Ocean Region.

Alongside operational success ANC has strengthened its infrastructure and welfare initiatives. Renovation of the Car Nicobar runway is nearing completion while the extension of Kohassa runway and approval for key infrastructure projects including OTR Ports at Kamorta and Campbell Bay are progressing rapidly.

CINCAN also emphasized the Command's commitment to community welfare outreach and nation-building. Under initiatives such as Aarohan Dweep Se Delhi thirty tribal students were taken to Delhi to interact with national leaders and witness Independence Day celebrations. Regular medical camps, school outreach, fishing community awareness drives, veteran interaction programmes and the Coastal Cleanup Mission underscore the Command's enduring social responsibility. He lauded DWWA and the welfare associations of all four components for their active role in social engagement, visits to old-age homes and orphanages and support to families commending the invaluable contribution of women in enriching the Command's achievements.

The celebrations concluded with illumination of Indian Navy and Indian Coast Guard ships off Marina Park at sunset complemented by a Joint Services Band Concert at Sri Vijaya Puram which added splendour to the occasion.

CINCAN extended warm greetings on behalf of himself and his wife to all personnel and families of the Command on this special occasion appreciating their unwavering support and dedication.

As India's only Integrated Operational Command, ANC continues to safeguard maritime frontiers to ensure security across the Andaman and Nicobar Islands and uphold India's strategic presence in the Indo-Pacific, a press release from HQ ANC said.

Beodnabad farmers encouraged to take up tropical cut flowers cultivation in floriculture drive by Department of Agriculture

Sri Vijaya Puram, Oct. 8

An orientation programme on the 'Promotion of Floriculture with Special Focus on Tropical Cut Flowers' was held yesterday at the Gram Panchayat Beodnabad. The event was jointly organized by the Zonal Agriculture Office, South Andaman in association with the High Value Agriculture Development Agency (HVADA), Directorate of Agriculture.

The programme was inaugurated by the chief guest, Smti. Champa Das, Pramukh, Panchayat Samiti, Prothrapur who appreciated the Department of Agriculture for such a timely and impactful initiative to empower local farmers. In her address, she highlighted the vast potential of tropical floriculture in the islands and encouraged farmers to adopt high-value crops to enhance their income.

The programme focused on the cultivation, management and market potential of Heliconia and Alpinia species which are increasingly in demand as tropical cut flowers in both national and international markets. Smti. Pitchammal Beevi, Assistant Director (Agriculture) explained the farmers on the suitability of these crops under the Island agro-climatic conditions, their adaptability and the economic advantages they offer.

Shri. V. Kumar, Sarpanch, Gram Panchayat Beodnabad, welcomed this initiative and noted that such programmes create valuable livelihood opportunities for rural youth and farmers. He encouraged the farming community to take full advantage of the technical guidance and institutional support provided by the Agriculture Department. The event was witnessed by the active participation from local farmers, SHG members, field staff and Panchayat representatives. Informational pamphlets were distributed to farmers. The event concluded with an interactive session, where farmers shared their queries and suggestions.

During the programme, altogether, 36 participants attended wherein 23 farmers have enrolled their names for taking up Heliconia sp. and Alpinia sp. cultivation with approximately covering an area of 1.0 hectare under the floriculture initiative, a press release from Department of Agriculture said.
