Opinion | Why The Great Nicobar Project Is An Ambitious Leap

The Great Nicobar Project, a visionary endeavour of the Modi government, is poised to transform the Great Nicobar Island into a strategic and economic hub, reinforcing India's stature in the Indo-Pacific. This Rs 75,000-crore mega-infrastructure initiative, a cornerstone of the Act East Policy, harnesses the island's unique geostrategic location to drive national security, economic prosperity, and regional connectivity. While the project promises immense benefits, the Modi government has also prioritised environmental sustainability and the welfare of indigenous tribal communities.

Strategic and Economic Benefits

The Great Nicobar Project is a multifaceted plan designed to capitalise on the island's proximity to the Malacca Strait, a critical artery for global trade. Its key components - an International Container Transshipment Terminal (ICTT), a greenfield international airport, a modern township, and a 450 MVA gas and solar-based power plant - promise to reshape India's maritime and economic landscape.

The Great Nicobar's location, just 150 km from Indonesia, places it at the crossroads of vital sea lanes. The ICTT at Galathea Bay, capable of handling 16 million TEUs, will position India as a major transshipment hub, reducing dependence on foreign ports such as Colombo and Singapore. This strengthens India's maritime influence, complementing the Indian Navy's INS Baaz airbase to enhance surveillance and counter regional geopolitical challenges, particularly China's expanding presence in the Indian Ocean. By securing control over these critical routes, the project bolsters India's role as a net security provider, safeguarding national interests and global trade flows.

The ICTT will transform the Great Nicobar into a global shipping hub, slashing logistics costs for Indian trade and saving foreign exchange. The greenfield international airport, designed to handle 4,000 passengers per hour by 2050, will serve both civilian and defense needs, connecting the island to mainland India and Southeast Asia. The planned township, accommodating 3-4 lakh people, will foster economic activity through residential, commercial, and institutional developments. Aligned with the Act East Policy, the project will deepen trade and investment ties with ASEAN nations, positioning the Great Nicobar as a gateway for regional commerce and enhancing India's economic competitiveness.

Moreover, the Great Nicobar's pristine beaches, lush rainforests, and rich biodiversity make it a prime destination for ecotourism. The project envisions infrastructure for activities like river cruises, kayaking, and bird watching, drawing visitors while preserving the island's natural allure. Enhanced connectivity via the airport and port will boost local businesses, creating jobs and economic opportunities for residents. Managed by the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Integrated Development Corporation (ANIIDCO), the project ensures that economic benefits reach local communities, transforming the region into a vibrant hub for tourism and trade.

As part of the Holistic Development of Islands programme, the Great Nicobar Project integrates the Andaman and Nicobar Islands into India's strategic and economic framework. By establishing the island as a maritime and tourism hub, it strengthens north-south connectivity, fostering closer ties with Indo-Pacific nations. This aligns with India's ambition to lead in the region, countering geopolitical challenges while promoting economic cooperation. With a 30-year phased implementation, the project reflects a forward-looking commitment to sustainable growth and regional influence.

Safeguarding Environmental Concerns

The Modi government recognises the ecological and cultural significance of the Great Nicobar, home to unique biodiversity and indigenous tribes like the Nicobarese and Shompen. While critics highlight risks of deforestation and tribal displacement, the government has implemented robust measures to ensure sustainable development and protect these communities.

The project secured environmental and forest clearances in 2022, with strict conditions to minimise ecological harm. Compensatory afforestation programs will offset tree felling, preserving the island's biodiversity-rich rainforests. The government has prioritised protecting critical habitats, avoiding turtle nesting sites and coral reefs to safeguard species like leatherback sea turtles, dugongs, and Nicobar macaques. The adoption of gas and solar-based power plants underscores a commitment to cleaner energy, reducing the project's environmental footprint. Collaboration with institutions like the Wildlife Institute of India ensures rigorous biodiversity monitoring, while adherence to Coastal Regulation Zone norms reinforces ecological accountability.

The welfare of the Nicobarese and Shompen, including the particularly vulnerable Shompen living in voluntary isolation, is central to the

Hon'ble MP urges Hon'ble Railway Minister to conduct recruitment drives and establish an Exam Centre in A&N Islands

Sri Vijaya Puram, Sept. 10
Shri Bishnu Pada Ray, Hon'ble Member of Parliament from Andaman & Nicobar Islands, in a communication to Shri Ashwini Vaishnaw Ji, Hon'ble Minister for Railways, Government of India has highlighted that in earlier years, the Ministry of Railways conducted selection drives and examinations for various categories of posts, enabling a significant number of islanders to secure employment in the Railways. The Hon'ble MP stated that for the past several years, no such recruitment exercises have been conducted locally, depriving the Island youth of valuable employment opportunities. He emphasized that the absence of an Examination Centre in the A&N Islands forces candidates to travel to mainland India, incurring heavy expenditure merely to appear in the exams. Accordingly, the Hon'ble MP has requested the Railway Minister to conduct Railway recruitment drives in the Andaman & Nicobar Islands for various categories of posts and establish a permanent Railway Examination Centre at Sri Vijaya Puram, A&N Islands, to facilitate participation of Island candidates without the burden of travelling to the mainland. Shri Ray stated that such steps would provide fair and equal opportunity to the unemployed youth of these far-flung Islands and fulfill their long-cherished aspirations to serve in the Indian Railways, a press release from MP Office said.
