India's Pearl Harbour in the

While the ICTP takes shape, India has been steadily moving the chess pieces of its 'Act South-East Asia' strategy. On September 5, India secured the support of visiting Singapore Prime Minister Lawrence Wong for joint patrols with the navies of Malaysia, Indonesia and Singapore in the Malacca Straits.

In August, the Indian Navy conducted its first joint exercise with the Philippines. The move came three years after India exported the Indo-Russian Brahmos cruise missiles to the Philippines.

It is in talks with other regional countries like Indonesia and Vietnam for exports of its front-line missile. An East-facing strategic port could be the permanent anchor of India's trade and military interests in the region. (Source: www.indiatoday.in)
