Nicobar project will not disturb or displace indigenous tribes, says Environment Minister

The development of a port and airport in the pristine Nicobar Islands "will not disturb or displace" any of the Shompen, one of the indigenous, vulnerable tribes native to the island, according to Environment Minister Bhupender Yadav.

He offered the assurances in a written response this week to concerns raised by Rajya Sabha member and Congress spokesperson Jairam Ramesh earlier this month.

The development, which is part of the Rs. 72,000-crore Great Nicobar Project, will also help India counter expansionist action by China in the region, curb the stealing of marine resources by Myanmarese poachers, bridge infrastructural gaps, and promote international trade, Mr. Yadav said in his letter.

Finally, the site of the project is unlikely to witness an earthquake of the scale that had uprooted the region in 2004, for another 400 to 700 years, he added.

Mr. Yadav replied that the reports of the high-powered committee had not been made public because it was a project of "national importance with strategic and defence dimensions."

The Environment Minister claimed that due consultation with the resident tribal councils had been conducted in the form of meetings with the Andaman Adim Janjati Vikas Samiti - an organisation run and set up by the administration since 1976 - and that the Chairman of the Tribal Council had attended these meetings.

However, as The Hindu has earlier reported, the Tribal Council had withdrawn its consent for the project.

No ownership

Moreover, the island administration had neither recognised nor granted ownership of any forest land to local tribes as per the provisions of the Forest Rights Act. These points were not addressed in Mr. Yadav's letter, which underlined that no objections were raised during the "statutory period" prescribed in the Forest Rights Act. He also

Andaman admin to protect Great Nicobar tribal interests, says Centre

The Andaman and Nicobar administration has been entrusted with protection of interests of tribals who will be impacted by the holistic development of Great Nicobar Island in the Union territory, the Centre informed the Lok Sabha on Monday.

On Monday, the Union ministry of environment, forest and climate change (MoEFCC) in a written response in the Lok Sabha said: "Protection of the interests of tribals is inherent in conditions of approval accorded by the Central Government and the UT Administration has been entrusted with such responsibilities as elaborated in the approvals granted."

The ministry was responding to a question by AIMIM lawmaker Asaduddin Owaisi, who sought to know whether the government is aware that about 10 million trees are to be cut and indigenous tribes displaced in Great Nicobar Island as part of a government project to develop the island for tourism etc. He also asked whether such project is consistent with the country's domestic and international obligations to protect the environment.

"The approval granted by the Central Government is in consonance with the policies and programme of the Government which includes inter-alia mitigation measures to compensate the impact of development on flora and fauna," Union minister of state, MoEFCC, Kirti Vardhan Singh said in the response.

The Centre vide letter October 27, 2022 has accorded the In-principle/Stage-1 approval for diversion of 130.75 sq km forest land for sustainable development in Great Nicobar Island, the minister said.

"The project is of significant strategic and national importance. The estimated number of trees to be affected is 9.64 lakhs (964,000). However, more than 50% i.e. 65.99 Sq. km of the area proposed for diversion is reserved for green development where no tree felling is envisaged. It is expected that about 15% of development area would continue to remain as green and open spaces and therefore the number of trees likely to be affected is going to be less than 9.64 lakhs," Singh added.

A&N Administration proposes to take up white toppings of existing roads as pilot project

Commissioner-cum-Secretary (PWD) visits work site of road & other works to be undertaken by APWD in South Andaman

Port Blair, Aug. 25

Keeping in my mind the present frequent maintenance of Black top road in Andaman due to climatic condition and other factors, the A&N Administration has proposed to take up 32 km of white topping roads as pilot project in South Andaman District. One of the proposed roads is part of Tushnabad-Collinpur road. The design of the road will be vetted by CRRI, New Delhi. The Commissioner-cum-

Secretary (PWD), Smt. Nandini Paliwal, IAS along with Secretary (PWD), Ms. Purva Garg, IAS, Er. T. K. Priyith Rekh, Chief Engineer, APWD and other Senior Officers of APWD visited the proposed road.

The Commissioner further visited the roads to be taken up as part of the Annual Action Plan 2024-25 which includes Tirur-Colinpur road, NH4 to Badmashpahar road. On inspection, the Commissioner directed to ensure street design in the proposed road as decided by the Chief Secretary.

The street design features includes hard berm, footpath, street furniture, bus bay, street light provisions and drains wherever required based on the population, utility of the road.

The Commissioner directed APWD to take up the repair of roads immediately after the monsoon. The tender process and codal formalities should be completed before the fair weather.

The Commissioner further visited the sites of major drains at Pahargaon-Austinabad area. The drain is proposed based on the demand of public representative of the area.

The Secretary (PWD) further directed to keep provision of third party quality check in all the major works. The above works will be taken up during this financial year, a press release from APWD said.

added that there are provisions to compensate those who will lose their land due to the proposed airport.
Mr. Ramesh had written to Mr. Yadav on August 10, demanding that all environmental clearances accorded to the project be revoked. He further demanded that parliamentary panels review the project.
The nub of his objections was that the project involved diverting 13,075 hectares of forest land, amounting to about 15% of the island's area; that some parts of the proposed project fell under parts of the coastal zone where construction was prohibited; that the project was being pushed without seeking the permission of the Shompen and Nicobarese, the resident tribal groups; and that existing laws that prescribe the process to gauge the consent of the tribal communities had been violated.
